Firewalls & Antivirus Software

In the world of computers a firewall refers to a network device which blocks certain kinds of network traffic, forming a barrier between a trusted and an untrusted network. It attempts to block the spread of computer attacks and works hand-in-hand to protect our network computers. Antivirus detects malware and a firewall blocks malicious connections.

Google Calendar

We have posted a video with instructions on using Google Calendar. Please try to view this informative video. Video posted on our web page found under Departments, Telecom, select Resources and Google Calendar Overview. This video will be available for a limited period of time.

Geek Comic

"Putting asbestos around your computer isn't the same as installing a firewall."
